Coping with Infertility Support Group

The Program:

Whether you have just begun your journey through infertility, are currently going through assisted reproductive treatment (ART) or trying to decide on treatment, adoption or child-free living, infertility can be grueling.

The whirlwind of emotions that infertility brings can feel overwhelming. Sometimes knowing that your feelings are normal and you are not alone can help.

Coping with Infertility offers men and women a place where they can discuss their concerns related to medical and emotional experiences. Group members will have the opportunity to meet and talk with others undergoing similar experiences, share their feelings, and gain support.
