Drake Joins Trillium Springs Counseling Center

ATLANTA, Georgia (Mar. 1, 2010) – Philip Y. Drake, M.S., M.A., has joined Trillium Springs Counseling Center.

“We are delighted that Phil has joined our therapeutic team with a focus on marriage counseling and sex therapy,” said Trillium Springs Counseling founder and director Vilda S. Brannen, M.A., NCC, LPC.

Phil received his Master’s degree in Professional Counseling with emphases on both Sex Therapy and Spirituality from Richmond Graduate University (formerly PSI). He also holds bachelor’s and master’s degrees from the Georgia Institute of Technology. Phil’s counseling career began after a successful 23 year career in health care sales and consulting.

His areas of focus in counseling include marital therapy (including premarital counseling), sexual addiction and wholeness, men’s issues, intimacy (emotional, physical and spiritual), communication and blended families (including parenting skills).

Phil interned with and currently co-leads a men’s sexual addiction group with Dr. Douglas Rosenau, renowned sex therapist and author of Celebration of Sex and a number of other books. He did previous work at The Intimacy Center, working with Dr. Rosenau and a number of other sex therapists.

Phil had spoken on multiple occasions on Marriage and Married Sexuality and he and his wife have led couples retreats on dealing with emotional pain and experiencing emotional intimacy.

Phil has been married for 24 years, has 6 children (yours, mine and ours – ranging in age from 32 to 19) and 4 grandchildren.

For more information or to set up an appointment, please email Phil at phil@trilliumsprings.com or call him at 770.734.0746.
